

Minnesota State Fire Code prohibits the use of these and others like them, without over-current protection in residential housing units. Penalties and fines may include: 30 days in jail and a $1,000.00 fine!

Only power strips with an over-current protection fuse and switch are approved for use.

